*London, July 10.
Yesterday arrived a Mail from Flanders.*

Tunis, May 14.

THE Capigi Balshaw whom the Ottoman Port sent hither to claim Joanim Coggia's Galley with the Christian Slaves on Board, has only got the Galley, the Slaves being sent before to Algiers. On the 3d Instant the Dutch Consul received by way of Malta a Packer of Letters from M. Hochepied, the Dutch Consul at Smyrna, together with Dispatches from the Port for Joanim Coggia, who is at Bona on the Coast of Algiers: These Dispatches contain not only that Rebel's Pardon from the Grand Signior, but an Order also for him to return to Constantinople. Beside this, the Port has sent hither a Capigi Balshaw with a Chiaoux and another Person of Distinction, to find out Joanim Coggia and to offer him the Command of the Turkish Fleet in Quality of Captain Balshaw, which Employ he discharged once before with considerable Reputation.

Leghorn, June 20. Advices from Tunis say, that 18 Christian Slaves had run away from Porto-Sarina with the Effects and Baggage belonging to Joanim Coggia on board a Bark with French Colours, which they seized, and carried to Trapani; and that those of Tunis had attacked the French inhabiting there, of whom the Regency demands an Equivalent for the Goods carried off.

Florence, June 23. The Grand Duke continues in tolerable good Health, and goes out often to take the Air: It is reported, this Prince has lately expressed himself after the following Manner, --- "That as long as he lives, he shall find Means to secure his Dominions from the Calamities of War; that he flatters himself, that having thus long preserved his Subjects in Peace, and being now at the brink of the Grave, the Potentates who seem to be on the Point of quarrelling with one another will let him die amidst the Tranquillity he has always loved, and for which he has sacrificed many Advantages; that his Son, the Grand Prince, will find the Finances in pretty good Condition, to maintain him and to defend his People; but that his Ministry cannot do him greater Service than to incline him all they can to Peace, and above all things not to engage, at the present Juncture, in any Party." --- It is assuted, that the Emperour absolutely refuses to let the Succession to the Grand Duke take Place in the Female Line of the House of Medicis, and that he not only will support his Rights and Pretensions to the Fiefs that are included in the Dominions of his Royal Highness, but likewise to the Republick of Florence. It is rumour'd that the Imperial Court has accommodated all its Differences with the Court of Turin, and yields to his Sardinian Majesty several Places in the Milaneze. The Merchants of this Country are forbidden under severe Penalties to let out their Ships to hire to foreign Potentates, or to sell them any Naval Commodities. Advices from Rome say, the Pope is very busiy in order to make himself necessary, at the present Juncture, both to the Imperial and Spanish Courts, and to secure Italy, especially the Ecclesiastical Dominions, from the approaching War. A severe Satyr is lately published at Rome against the Papal Family, and the Author promises more such, from Time to Time, till the Restitution of Comachio. The Constitution-Affair neither advances nor looses Ground; the Divines examining it very regularly, and make their Reports of it, but decide nothing: They do well, 'tis best to leave the Decision of it to the Secular Powers.

Aix, June 26. The Plague is now ceas'd at Bouffet; all the rest of the Province is in good Health.

Avignon, June 27. The Contagion here is violent; about 15 Persons a Day fall sick, and as many die.

Orange, June 27. Three Persons fell sick here on the 23d Instant, and another on the 24th.

Marseille, June 28. Health is returning here, and 'tis hoped that by God's Providence, and the good Order which is kept, we shall in a little time see the Greatness of our Danger quite over, and be able to begin our Quarantine. For four Days past no Person fell sick, and but two Yesterday in the Country Houses. Not above 70 sick are in the Hospital, and three Parts of them are recovering. 'Tis computed that 150 Persons are dead since the last Relapse; the rest of the Province is in perfect Health. It happened not by taking concealed Apparel that the Contagion became renewed this last Time, as was reported, but by counterband Merchandise of Silk Stockings, brought hither from Avignon, of which fresh Discoveries are made daily, and several of the Smugglers who are imprisoned on that Occasion, 'tis believed will pay dearly for their Transgression.

Montpellier, June 29. M. de Jossard is returned to his former Post, having had no News of the Orders he expected to go and command in Avignon; his Presence would have been very necessary there, the Contagion being considerably heightened, by reason of the great Intercourse of the Inhabitants on St. John's Day last, and at their Election of Consuls. The Disinfection of all Merchandise and Effects in Places of that Province that have been infected, is to be done by Airing and Perfume; and the cleansing of Merchandise and Effects that are here, and in other healthful Places enclosed between the Lines of Tournon and the River Orb, is to be performed by an Airing of only 20 Days.

Ratisbon, July 6. Since the Emperour's Decree concerning Religious Affairs has been communicated to the Diet, the Evangelical Body receives daily, from all Parts, fresh Complaints of the Protestants; and 'tis apprehended that this Decree, far far from contributing towards any Redress of Grievances, will occasion new Disorders, and be attended by pernicious Consequences.

Brussels, July 9. The Cargo of the Ship St. Joseph, which arrived the 29th past at Ostend from the East-Indies, consists, among other Things, of 199,000 Pound weight of Tea; 3,300 Pound weight of China Root; 3,290 Pieces of Damask, and a great Quantity of China-Ware.

Hambourg, July 10. Letters from Petersbourg say, that Prince Menzicoff was arrived there from Moscow with the two Czarian Princesses. Advices of the 2d Instant from Stockholm give an Account, that several of the Councillours have followed the King and Queen of Sweden to Medwig: That the Danish Envoy is arrived there, and that M. Bestuchef, the Czar's Minister, is soliciting the Advancement of his Negotiations.

Paris, July 11. By the last Proposal that was made for reducing the Troops, the Extraordinaries of the War will be lessened from 45 Millions of Livres to 40 Millions. Three Ships belonging to the East India Company, are arrived at a Port in Brittany richly laden from China; their Cargoes consist of Silks, China, Cabinets, Tea, and other Commodities; 'tis given out, that the Sale of these Effects, which is to be made at Nantz, will amount to upwards of eight Millions of Livres. A great Consultation was held Yesterday at Versailles for finding out the best Method to put the East-India Company's Affairs on a good Foot. The Prince of Conti finding himself pretty well recovered of his late Indisposition, went from hence on the 5th instant to his Country Seat, designing to go the next Morning to Versailles, to make his Court to the King, but his Indisposition returning, he altered his Resolution, and is come back again to this City. M. Ardancourt, one of the Register-Officers belonging to the East-India Company, is set out from hence for Nantz, to make the necessary Dispositions for the Sale of the Goods newly arrived for Account of that Company. The Names of the Ships now arrived are, the Prince of Conti, the Moor, and the Galates; a fourth Ship called the Syren, is expected home in a short Time, richly laden from Surat. M. de Racinoux, Master of Requests, is appointed to go to Rheims against the King's Coronation, in order to examine all the Prisoners who are to be set at Liberty on Occasion of that Ceremonial. It is said, that an Arrêt will be published for preventing the Parliament's taking Cognizance of Differences between private Persons upon Account of Paper Effects.

Plymouth, July 6. This Day came in the Katherine from Alicant.

Dartmouth, July 6. Yesterday sailed the Dover from London for Maryland.

Bristol, July 7. Yesterday arrived the Achilles from Jamaica; George and Francis from Virginia; and Don Carlos from the Streights.

Deal, July 7. All the outward bound which sailed Yesterday are put back again. Arrived the Charming Nelly from Anteoa.

Deal, July 8. The King's Ships and outward bound are still here. Arrived the Elisabeth from the Canaries.
